

TERMS AND CONDITIONS - PERUSAL SCORES

1. Perusal scores are loaned, free of charge, for a period of fourteen days to allow customers to assess the piece's suitability for their ensemble, event or needs. The materials must be returned to the address at the bottom of this document, responsibly packaged, with a post mark no later than sixteen postal days (i.e. not including Sunday) from the date of the postmark with which it was sent out from the library. Late returns may be charged at standard twenty-eight day hire (£62.50 GBP) and non- returned items will be charged at replacement cost.
2. Perusal scores are protected by copyright - both the visual image and the intellectual property, which remain the property of the composer. These are loaned on trust that the customer will not in any way reproduce the materials by electronic, photographic or handwritten means and will not use the materials for any public performance, recording or broadcast without the written consent of the composer / arranger. Any breach of such trust will be pursued to the fullest extent of copyright and performing rights laws.
3. The creation of any arrangement, transcription or adaptation is not permitted without the written consent of the composer (in the case of original works). Any breach of such trust will be pursued to the fullest extent of copyright and performing rights laws.
4. Perusal scores must not be written-on or in any way marked or defaced while on loan. Damaged materials will be charged at replacement value.
5. Perusal scores must not be passed to third parties or otherwise leave the possession of the customer, who assumes all responsibility for the materials while on loan.
